The Senate passed to the consideration of the lottery bill, authorizing the Post master-General to prohibit the delivery o registered letters and the payment of money orders relating to lotterie whether the same be fraudulent or not. Senator Hoar was in favor of the proposed bill, but doubted the propriety of the remedy proposed. Legal objewere suggested by Senator Morgan, who regarded the bill as entirely too broad.

The bill passed.
At two o'clock the Senate entered upon unfinished business, which was the bill admitting the Territory of Dakota, south of the forty-sixth parallel of north latitude, into the Union. Mr. Harrison explained that it was proposed to constitute that portion of the existing Territory of Dakota, which was not affected by this bill, to be named "Lincoln," and to transfer to that Territory the officers of the United States who are now doing duty over the whole Territory. He asserted that ninety division of the Territory, and he de-precated a political discussion as precated a political discussion as unworthy of the importance of the question. The area of the new State would be 75,000 square miles-more than 10,500 miles greater in extent than the whole area of the New England States. The new Territory of Lincoln would com-prise 72,100 square miles. It had been contended that a population equal to the unit of representation in the House of Representatives should be the basis of admission as a State. The record showed that not one Territory admitted into the Union since Missoure in 1821 had possessed that population. But even if that test were to be adopted, it could easily be demonstrated that Southern Dakota had t the present time a population in excess of 150,000, which was the present basis of epresentation In order to lift this question above the low plane of the political effect on this party or that, the bill introduced at the last session had provided that the admisslon of Dakota should not take place until after the Presidential election. That election had been held and the country had passed into the control of the Demo cratic party. It must be four years more before Dakota could enter the Electoral College. Would any one suggest that with her great resources and intelligent population she must be kept four years ionger from representation as a State? Mr. Vest rose to reply, but yielded for executive session at 3:50 p. m. At 4:12 the doors were reopened and the Senate

On demand for the regular order by Mr. Reagan, the inter-State commerce bill came up as unduished business. Mr. Barnsdale (of miss.) addressed the House, arging the necessity for some measure regulating inter-State traffic by Lailroads, and defending the Constitutionality of such legislation.

Mr. Davis (of Ill.) advocated the commission feature of the bill, but did not consider the necessity for legislation as argent as had been represented by some of the friends of the bill. Mr. Horr (of Mich.) argued that irong that indexible rules for the regulation of railroad traffic, whenever attempted, had resulted in failure. The problem was one that only time and experience could only that only that any legislation that would hamper the railroads. He believed the development of the country due more to the combination of capital than to any other cause. Mr. Horr opposed the bill with much vigor, and obtained an extension of his time for an hour.

Mr. Boyle (of Pennsylvania) pointed out unjust discriminations in the bill which did not touch the great New York Central or Pennsylvania roads, which were located entirely in one State, while the Eric and the Baltimore & Ohlo were made subject to its provisions. He recognized the evils that existed, and if a proper remedy could be devised he would cordially support It; but he belleved either of the pending bills would result in greater injury than the cylls complained of

A Year's Casualties. WASHINGTON, D. C., December 10 .-

Mr. Dumont, Supervising Inspector-General of steam vessels, has completed his report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1831 The service at that date consisted of one hundred and forty-seven officerand clerks. Attention is called to the perpetratio of frauds in the manufacture of infe-preservers, and the means adopted for its prevention in the future. The total loss of life during the year was 271 persons, thirteen less than in the previous year. In this connection General Dumont says, but for the unfortunate accident to the steamer City of Columbus last January the number of lives lost during the year would have been less than for many years past. Reference is made to the case with the more regret, for the reason that the accident could not and would not have occurred except for the gross remissness in duty of the commanding officer of the ship, who yielded to the complation of going to sleep while acting as pilot of his ship, when at the time she was being navigated through the most perdous portion of her voyage. This accident shows how impotent are the wisest precautions of law when their execution depends upon human fallibility and power of endurance.

Referring to accidents by explosion,

General Dumont says that though the number of such accidents were less than in the previous year, "it is to be regretted that the number had not been still less than it was, particularly as it has been charged, and not satisfactorily disproved that one notable accident of this nature (the Riverdale) was chargeable to the inattention to duty of an officer of the inspection service charged with the inspection of the steamer's boilers.'

Omaha Charley, the Desperado, Comes to Grief at the End

He Shoots a Citizen in a Saloon, and Is Taken From Jail By a Mob and Hanged Till Dead.

Stout But Unavailing Resistance of 'a Brave Sheriff and His Equally Brave Deputy,

MARYVILLE, Mo., December 9 .- Charles . Stevens, alias Omaha Charley, who hot Hubert Kremer in Hilgert's saloon in this city on Wednesday of last week, was taken out of the county jail last night a little after midnight, by thirty or forty maskers and hanged till dead on a bridge 100 yards distant. Sheriff Anderson and Deputy Sheriff Jack Ander-son refused to surrender Omaha Charley to the mob, when a number of shots were tired by the maskers, and some of them came near hitting Sheriff Anderson, grazing just past his neck. The Sheriff and Deputy

EMPTIED THEIR REVOLVERS and were forced up-stairs, where the mob completely overpowered them and took the key to the cell from the Sheriff. They then got a light and went into the cell where Omaha Charley was. He offered what resistance he could, and clung on to the railing with fearful tenaeity. It is reported that he bit one of the maskers' thumbs nearly off, and that another masker was wounded in the arm during the shooting. When they took Charley to the bridge he wanted to be heard. They told him to go ahead, when he said: "Gentlemen, what does this mean?" Some voices said: "Is this all you have to say?" He said nothing more, except when they pulled him up, he exclaimed:

The Sheriff and deputy made a gallant de lease. The shooting of Kremer was very approvoked. He is yet living, with a chance to get well. Omaha Charley was a desperate man and while many feel that he fully merited such treatment, yet the law-abiding citizens of the community the ply regret that the law was not per mitted to take its due course.

PILISVILLE, PA., December 10 .- Early yesterday morning an engine crew on the Lehigh Valley Railroad in passing Trenton, a mining patch half a mile from Delano, discovered a house to be on fire, and gave an immediate alarm. The eighbors rushed out partially dressed, but the occupants of the burning building it seemed impossible to arouse. Just be-fore the blazing roof fell in the head of the family appeared at the window with a child in his arms, which he dropped out upon the ground. He returned evidently to save others, and was not seen again alive The flames spread with great rapldity, and in a short time three adjoint ng houses were enveloped and all were impletely destroyed with their contents. All the inmates escaped. In the house in which the fire originated, however, six Frank Farrell, his wife, his daughter Amy, aged fourteen; his sons Walter, aged ten years, and Thomas, aged four and a young boarder named James Fitzgerald. The child that was saved is seven years of age. The bodies of four of the victims have been recovered. The residents of the other houses destroyed have been provided with dwellings people living in the vicinity. Bodies of Miners Becovered-Nobody to SHAMORIN, PA., Debember 10 .- Relays of men worked all night seeking to recover Joel Duseman, Peter Coble, John Fox and Richard Tucket, the men buried and burned in the explosion at Henry Clay shaft Sunday. The after damp was so great that little headway was made until the air currents were cut off from other sections of the mine and forced in-to the scene of the disaster. At seven o'clock yesterday morning the first body, that of Tucket, was brought to his home. Those of Coble and Fox were then re-Those of Coble and Fox were then re-covered. The latter was burned to a cusp. Coble was smothered, receiving no burns. Much difficulty was experi-enced in securing Duseman, sixty-four cars of coal being loaded from over him. He was horribly brulsed and hurned. Williams, partner of Tucket, the only survivor, had a wonderful escape, walking to safety through nearly 200 feet of gas, in which ordinary constitutions would have saccumbed. He says the accident was caused by a large gas-feeder bursting from the pillar. He and Fox are single men. Duseman had a wife and six children, Tucket a wife and five children, and Coble a wife and two children. No blame, says this evening's Times, is attached to the mine authorities for the accident. A TARIFF CLUB.

A Call for the Organization of One That Will Make Itself Felt. READING, PA., December 10 .- The Easton Pig Iron Association, Henry S. Eckert, of Reading, President, has issued circulars to every class of manufacturers and prominent men in the United States, asking their co-operation in the formation of a tariff club. The circular says that the organization should be based on the broad foundation of adherence, to protec tion and opposition to free trade, and its synonym, tariff for revenue only; that the membership will not be confined to any interested party, and that the only qualifration will be the simple pledge to promote American industry by restrictions on foreign goods. They further call upon all the friends of protection to naite, as Loudon's Cobden Free Trade

CHURCH CHRISTMAS SALE

Large Attendance at the Presbyterian Holiday Party-The Ladies $175 Ahead.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church gave their annual Christmas sale and reception at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon and last night, and as usual the enterprise was a big success, bringing out pastor of the Presbyterian church at a large crowd of sight-seers and purchas-Springfield, Ohio, took place to-day at ers. The affair was nicely planned and Springfield. The deceased was in the managed, all visitors being cordially wel-85th year of his age, and died on the comed and entertained, Rev. Prestley aidnight of the 8th inst. He was the father ling the ladies in receiving the callers and of J. M. Clokey of this city, and having doing the honors of the evening. The visited Decatur frequently he was well various booths looked very pretty in the THE BOOTES.

> The Parisian Fancy Work Booth at the east end of the room was where the ladies loved to linger, and it was also a point which the young men with skeleton salaries delighted to shun, for the prices were rather gilt-edged-for them, and they managed skillfully to anchor in the vicinity of the "Busy Bees" where nickels served as change. The Misses May Rogers and Lillie Brown, assisted by Laura Johns, Hattie Howell, Jennie Wells, Fannie Ehrman, Miss Hitchcock and Miss Careins, presided at this handsome fancy booth, and as they chatted pleasautly with callers they easily disposed of the very many beautiful articles at good figures, all for the "good of the cause." The display of fancy articles was highly praised by the critical ladice, while of course the gentlemen who (don't) know all about needlework said amen every time a compliment was bestowed. The "Busy Bees" were the laughing and smiling little misses in charge of the pretofficial business. He left yesterday noon. ty booth of that name, where was dis-Mrs. L. C. tre of the room was one of the principal attractions for there was displayed the concentrated sweetness of the enterprisereal home-made "French" and imported candies generously sprinkled with kernels of nuts and frosting. The candy stand did a "land office" business and had a box full of sheekels to dump into the church fund. The Misses Nellie Durfee, Jennie Rogers, Mabel Alexander and Effle Rogers waited upon all with good grace and gave good measure for the coveted cash. The choice candies were perfectly delicious.

The Turkish booth in charge of the Misses Carrie Powers, Mary Hardy and Alice Lewis was where there were hung in an attractive manner all sorts of aprons for little and big tolks, and they ranged in price from 25 cents up to several dolin the evening and there were so many calls for more that the ladies in charge thought of closing up shop and losing themselves in the crowd for they could not supply the demand. They will lay in a bigger stock of aprons next time. There was a woeful lack of dolls for the little ones, and many a pair of little bright eyes in the merry throng searched in vain for the dainty joys they so love to fondle and squeeze in a motherly fashion. It was a sad oversight, but it couldn't be helped. There are plenty of dollies at the stores and "Old Santa" will bring some with him in his sleigh Christmas eve, or he'll get a good scolding.

THE REFRESHMENT TABLES, of which there were a great number, were early. Stock for Spring of 1885 for sale patronized and as a whole the Christmas sale was a big success, socially and financially.

The ladies in charge of the refreshment tables were Misses D. R. Alexander, Mrs. R. P. Lytle, Mrs. T. P. Matthews, Mrs. W. R. Buckmaster, Mrs. C. W. Snyder, Mrs. John McDaniel, Mrs. J. T. Predicting the Weather from the Color of the Stars.

From the fact, determined by W. Spring that the color of pure water in great bulk is blue, M. Ch. Montigny explains the predominance of this color in the scintillation of the stars just before the scintillation of the stary just before and during wet weather. The luminous ruys, he argues, traversing the air charged with large quantities of pure water are necessarily tinged with the blue color of this medium. The excess of blue becomes an almost certain means of predicting rain. This theoretic conclusion corresponds with the results of his observations continued for several years past on the appearance of the tellar rays in connection with the state, of the weather. During the few months of fine weather in the present year blue has been much less consplcuous than in the corresponding months of previous Jears since 1876, when wet weather previous of the discontinuous that green, which had always coincided with clear skies during the line years before 1876, as recently again become predominant. lence he thinks it probable that we have got over the cycle of bad seasons, and that dry weather and more normal summers may be anticipated, at least for some time to come. The above is from Nature, and the same number contains an abstract of a paper by Prof. C. Michie Smith, on green-colored suns, in which he concludes that this phonomenon is due to the presence of unusual quantities of watery vapor in the atmosphere -Scientific American.

-01 tell you what," airily exclaimed Perkins, as he sat down to the supper-table, "I was in a tight place this after-noon." "Yes, I know you were, interrupted his wife, in clear, cold utter-ances that cut like a knife; "I saw you coming out of it." And then it flashed across Perkins that he had incidentally stepped into a saloon with a friend fo the purpose of examining a doubtful political statement with the aid of a pointest statement with the said of the magnifying glass, and his contemplated, ancedote slipped from his grasp like money at a summer resort, while the supper was finished amid a silence so profound that he could plainly hear a anpkin ring .- - Chicago Tribune.
